¹ Supplement to CD of Burial Registers and Monumental Inscriptions published in 2008 by Bradford Family History Society, incorporating previously unavailable source material for early graves sections of Heaton Baptist Highgate Cemetery

Heaton Baptist Highgate Cemetery, Bradford

Supplement: Early graves

Background

In 2008, Heaton Graveyard Community Project volunteers were coming to the end of the first part of their labours: all the gravestones were accessible and could be read. To celebrate this achievement and to take advantage of it, members of Bradford Family History Society recorded the monumental inscriptions and other memorials. The registers were transcribed and also electronically sorted to create a grave book, showing who was buried in which grave. A CD-ROM was produced the following year: Heaton Baptist Highgate Cemetery, Burial Registers and monumental Inscriptions. See www.bradfordfhs.org.uk.

In 1860 the Baptist Graveyard was extended to serve all the community. It was administered by a Burial Ground Committee. A Plan produced in 1868 showing the new graves, modified in 1987, did not show either the Old Ground graves or the Early Graves. It stated that there were no Burial registers for the Early Graves section of the cemetery.

In 2014 a notebook, which proved to be the Early Graves register, was found and handed to Margaret Gray of the Community Project, in whose care it now is. This was transcribed by Francesca Lozano. The transcriptions have been checked and the format adapted to make it suitable to use here. This record covers the years from 1824 – 1958.

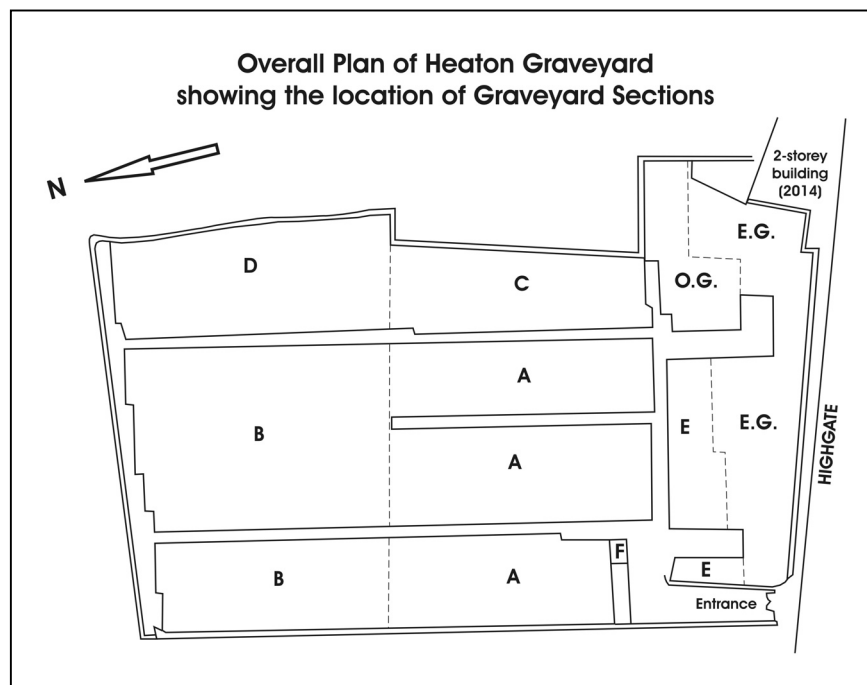

The term 'cemetery' has been used here to refer to the Baptist Graveyard and the Burial Board land.

The image on the left shows some of the early graves to the right of the Chapel. The larger graves, to its left, are in the Cemetery extension.

The Early Graves

This plan, drawn by a member of the Community Project shows how all the different sections of the cemetery fit together. In 1868 the Baptist Graveyard was extended to make space for all Heatonians and Sections A – E are part of this. The original Early Graves are marked EG and additional land freed up by the demolition of the Chapel is marked OG or Old Ground.

Acknowledgements

The Society thanks Margaret Gray and Francesca Lozano of the Heaton Graveyard Community Project: <http://www.heatongraveyard.co.uk>, and Dennis Waddington for creating this Download file.

Finding a name

Personal names are in capital letters whenever they are part of text to enable anyone scanning through the file to find names more easily. They are NOT in capitals when they are in a list form and already separate. This is to enable a word shape to be used to assist scanning. You may also search a PDF file for surnames, etc. If you are unsure how to do this, or how to move around the files, please go to Help with Adobe Reader .

Spelling of names is varied and often phonetic in the register. There is sometimes a mismatch between the spelling of a name in the register and on a gravestone. The use of [sic] was abandoned.

Abbreviations & Conventions used in the register transcriptions

- Dates are given in a standardized form with months abbreviated to three letters, which enables statistical analysis of the results.
- Square brackets [] indicate notes by the transcriber
- Curly brackets { } indicate names of the undertakers and any inscribed grave numbers when given, to show they are an editorial addition and not part of the epitaph.

Finding the Cemetery.

The Cemetery is on the main road through Heaton township, near the junction with Leylands Lane. There is no postal address. Queries about this download file should be sent to Bradford Family History Society. Queries about the graveyard should be sent to graymargaret1@aol.com of the Community Project. To locate the cemetery using GPS or on computer mapping websites such as Google Maps or Bing Maps, you may use the coordinates 53.8161, -1.7886 (Latitude 53°48'58"N by Longitude 1°47'19"W).

Supplement: Early Graves Burial Register

The opening pages of the register notebook appear to be a copy of another register, entries for many years all being in the same script. Later in the book the ink and script vary and notes were included about payment by the Burial Board for interments in the Old Ground (OG).

There is another copy of many of the entries at the back of the book. Any additional information there has been added to this transcription of the register, in italics. In the case of mis-matches in the spelling of names, the spelling found in the front entries has been used for this transcription, e.g. Crowther has been left as Crowther, not changed to Crouter as in the back section, and Clough remains as Clough, not Cluph.

In this transcription, dates have been given a standardised form to facilitate checking but there has been no need to abbreviate ages, the assumption that age is in years unless otherwise stated. Most of the entries also give the grave position. Sadly, the information provided for the Early Graves is more basic than in the Burial Board's registers.

Supplement: Early Graves Reconstructed Grave Book

This Grave book has been reconstructed from the information given in the Burial Register. It shows who is buried in each named grave.

All entries that have full grave positions listed along with names in the original source have been extracted and electronically sorted so that all the transcribed entries for each grave are listed together in the reconstructed grave book.

While the source document is generally in good condition for the transcriptions, one page of the book is particularly badly worn and its edge is missing. There are also some entries for which either the row or the column, or even both, of a grave position has not been entered in the original records. Sadly, these entries cannot be allocated to a grave and are not listed. Conversely, some dates of burial are given with full grave position but no name. These nameless burials are listed in the reconstructed grave book transcriptions as they may provide a starting point for researchers looking for missing names.

There is another copy of many of the entries at the back of the book. Any additional information there has been added to this transcription, in italics. Spelling of names taken from the front section for this transcription has not been changed when spellings in this back section seem to be different. e.g. Crowther has been left as Crowther, not changed to Crouter, and Clough remains Clough, not Cluph.

Heaton Baptist Highgate Cemetery, Bradford

Supplement: Early graves

Monumental inscriptions

The recordings of monumental inscriptions were originally made in 2008. This is a closed graveyard so there have been no burials since then and no new monumental stones. There have, however, been trees planted and they often have memorial plaques beside them. Whilst these plaques were transcribed for the original project, they have not been repeated here as this supplement refers specifically to Early Graves.

These Early Graves are narrower than some new ones, especially those between the Chapel and the road. There are no paths between them. They were made before the regulations requiring graves to be brick lined came into force. Consequently inaccuracies in size of earlier burials appear to have resulted in slight differences in the positions of the gravestones from the original assigned locations. However the positions of the gravestones still approximate to that given in the register and this is the one given in the following recordings.

It is possible that row and column numbers were once marked on the walls surrounding the graveyard, a common practice. However, the walls have been rebuilt and any markings which may once have been there are no longer evident. N.B. The Early Graves are on a slightly different alignment from those in Section E.

Since the 2008 recordings, another pre-2008 grave stone has been discovered. It may not be in its original position. It refers to a burial not recorded in the burial book. It is marked 'Rhodes' on the stylised plan that follows the monumental inscriptions.

ANN HILL the wife of JAMES HILL of Heaton who departed this life on the 30th October 1826 aged 36 years.

*Farewell thou late dear partner of my care,
Thy friendly converse I no more shall share,
Farewell thou object of my warmest love.
Saints hail thee welcome to the realms above,
There may I meet thee after death
To dwell at God's right hand.
Till then dear friend farewell.*

Heaton Baptist Highgate Cemetery, Bradford

Supplement: Early Graves Stylised Location Plan

Comparison of the rows and columns given in the Grave Book with the monumental inscriptions enabled a stylised plan to be drawn up showing the site of each grave, as on the following page.

There are 28 columns in the register but only 24 to be found. The extra 4 rows of graves, numbered 25 – 28 in the columns list, are at the present entrance to the cemetery. These graves are no longer visible but there is no evidence that there was ever any change in this position. The last interment in these graves was recorded in 1888. The new entrance that now crosses them must have been created before November 1896 when OG (Old Ground) graves began to be dug across the old entrance.

The Early Graves are narrower than some new ones, there are no paths between them and they were made before regulations requiring graves to be brick lined came into force. Consequently there appears to have been slight slippage in the measured positions of some of the gravestones compared to early specifications. The positions of the gravestones do, however, still approximate those given in the register and these are the ones given in the recordings.

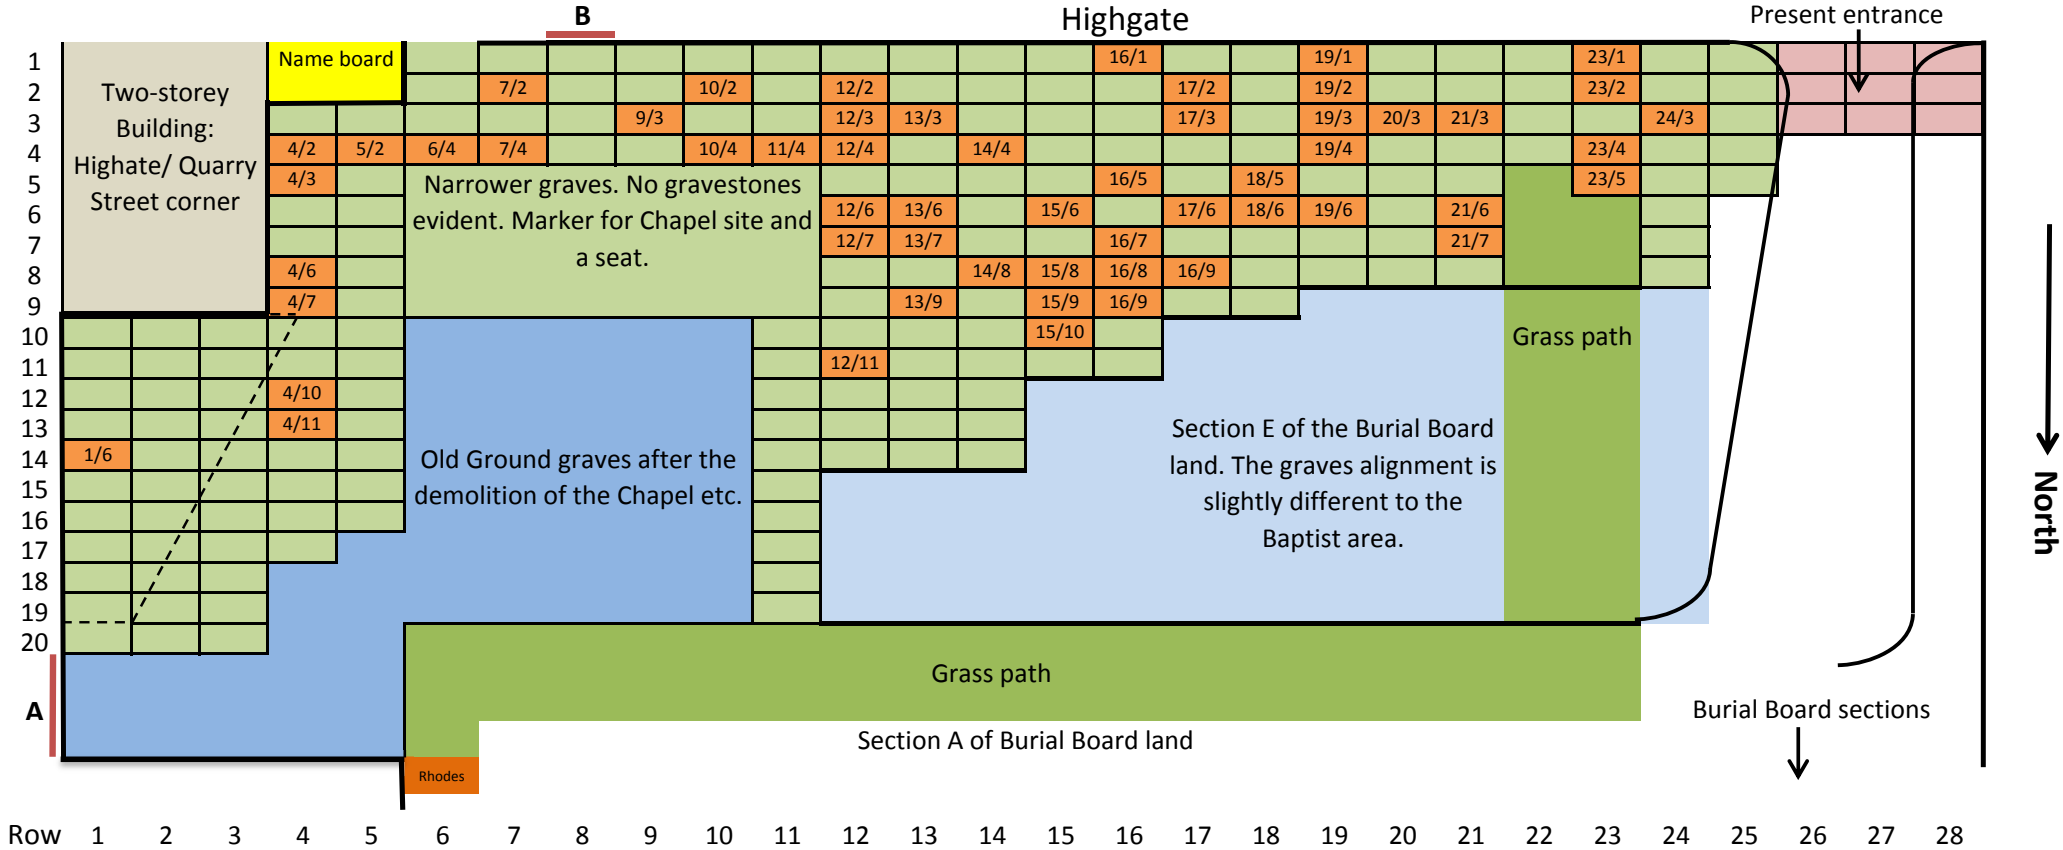

It is possible that row and column numbers were once marked on the walls surrounding the graveyard, a common practice. However, the walls have been rebuilt and any markings which may once have been there are no longer evident.

Since the 2008 recordings were made, another grave stone has been discovered. It may not be in its original position and refers to a burial not recorded in the burial book. It is marked 'Rhodes' on the stylised plan.

The only unused space in the Baptist (old) ground was the site of the old Chapel. An estimate of its size, from the image on the previous page, matches the size of the grid of OG graves. Additional OG graves are in what would have been a rear access to the Chapel. Lines in the wall show where this access has been filled in. There is a similar line in the partially rebuilt boundary wall with Highgate giving the position of the old Chapel entrance.

Stylised location plan is on following page

Heaton Baptist Highgate Cemetery, Bradford Supplement: Stylised Location Plan

- A

Original entrance for funerals etc.
- B

Original footpath and steps to Chapel, later filled in and used for graves
- Metal fence around land no longer part of graveyard
- Graves that are not now evident
- Early graves with stones
- Early graves without stones
- Grass path

HELP WITH ADOBE READER

The usefulness of the following advice will depend on the version of Adobe Reader on your computer.

1. Searching for data in Adobe Reader

There are in fact two ways to locate particular words, or characters, in Adobe Reader. One is called FIND, the other is called SEARCH.

FIND

In Adobe Reader version 8 and later, part of the display has a Find box (a rectangular box in which the word Find is showing). Once you have typed in the required word and pressed ENTER the finding process will start and it will stop temporarily at the first location of the word. The small Find window should have both right pointing and left pointing arrows. Clicking on these arrows will take you respectively to the next, or previous, occurrence of the word.

Adjacent to the Find box you may see the ▼ symbol, and clicking this will give several options – see OPTIONS below.

If the Adobe Reader you are using is earlier than version 8, then use the CTRL+F method described below.

The facility to find any character is available in almost any electronic document - PDF files, MS Word docs, emails, in fact any file containing text. To access it press CTRL+F (i.e. press and hold the CTRL key and, whilst holding it down, press the F key). This usually opens a small window in which you can type the word you are looking for. Press ENTER and the system will follow the same sequence as above.

SEARCH

The Search facility is much more comprehensive than the Find facility and creates a list of all the locations of the word you are looking for. It also has several options available – see OPTIONS below. To bring up the Search facility click the binoculars at the top of the Adobe Reader window. If the binoculars are not there, press SHIFT+CTRL+F.

OPTIONS

The most useful options are “Whole words only” and “Case-Sensitive”. The example below shows the results of using these when you have typed in the word Smith (note the initial capital letter followed by lower case in this example)

Options selected:	None	Case-Sensitive	Whole words only	Case-Sensitive & Whole words only
Words located:	Blacksmith, Smith, smith, Smithies, (etc.), BLACKSMITH, SMITH, SMITHIES, (etc.)	Smith, Smithies, (etc.)	Smith, smith, SMITH	Smith

HELP WITH ADOBE READER

Wild cards (i.e. the use of * to indicate any multiple characters, or ? to indicate a single character) are not allowed. So you cannot search for JO in the hope of finding JOHN, JONATHAN, JOSEPH, etc., or search for ?AILOR in the hope of finding SAILOR or TAILOR. In fact, searching for JO or AILOR without the “Whole words only” option would find these permutations.

If you type, say, MARY ANN GREGSON into the Find or Search facility, you will not find her if the data is MARY ANN WIFE OF GEORGE GREGSON. The reason the search failed is because the finding aid is looking for the characters in the exact sequence you typed.

Hence, as far as memorial inscriptions are concerned, you must think what the various combinations could be, and by reading some of the inscriptions you will become familiar with the variations. If you are trying to locate a person it is recommended that you carry out a search for the surname by itself.

2. Bookmarks

Bookmarks have been created on this CD so that you can go to specific points of interest by clicking an item in the list. Even more Bookmarks are revealed by clicking any + in a box.

If the Bookmark Panel is not visible on the left hand side of the Adobe Reader screen, pressing the F4 key should reveal it. Pressing the F4 key again will hide it. Alternatively, clicking the vertical Bookmarks tab on the left hand side of the Adobe Reader screen will either reveal the Bookmarks or hide them.

If you wish to make the main text of the body of the CD larger to just fill the screen you may find it convenient to hide the Bookmark Panel as instructed in the paragraph above.

3. Printing pages

To print a particular page click the printer icon at the top of the Adobe Reader window, or press CTRL+P (i.e. press and hold the CTRL key and, whilst holding it down, press the P key). In the Print window which opens the following settings are recommended:-

- i. Under Print Range select Current page (otherwise you could be printing 100s of sheets of paper), and
- ii. Under Page Handling select both Fit to Printer Margins and also Choose Paper Source by PDF Page size.

4. Enlarging text or images

Adobe Reader has a facility called the “loupe magnifying glass” which enables small sections of a page in the PDF file to be enlarged. This is particularly useful if you want to read small words on, say, a grave headstone.

To install a loupe magnifying glass icon on the toolbar at the top of the Adobe Reader screen do the following.

- i). Click View and select Zoom
- ii). From the list which appears click Loupe Tool

You should now see that the loupe tool  has been added to the other icons on the toolbar.

When you want to use the loupe tool, click the icon. This will change the mouse pointer into a small square box. Click anywhere in the PDF file where you want to enlarge the original, and a Loupe Tool window with an enlarged version will appear. By holding down the left mouse button you can move the mouse to any other part of the page and the enlarged image will follow. The amount of magnification can be altered by using the + and – in the Loupe Tool window.

To cancel the process, first press the Esc key – this will restore the mouse pointer – and then close the Loupe Tool window by clicking as
